EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT

- Expected 2027*
2023 University of Michigan
PhD in Social Psychology
MS in Social Psychology
Advisors: Ethan Kross, Shinobu Kitayama
Dissertation Committee: Ethan Kross, Shinobu Kitayama, Rada Mihalcea, Richard Gonzalez
- 2019 – 2021 University of Pennsylvania
Lab Manager at the Department of Psychology
PI: Angela Duckworth
- Summer 2018 Stanford University
Visiting Student at the Department of Psychology
PIs: Greg Walton, Shannon Brady
- 2019 Brigham Young University
BS in Psychology, minor in Statistics
With honors
Honor's Advisor: Dianne Tice

RESEARCH INTERESTS

Dynamic processes and regulation of emotion; Cross-cultural and religious variation in emotion and well-being; computational methods of modeling dynamic processes; historical and lexical analysis of culture; complex systems and network approaches

FEDERAL GRANTS

- 2025 – 2026 NIH Plasticity of Well-Being Network Grant
Examining the Role of Culture in the Links Between Loneliness, Isolation, and Well-Being Awarded to early-stage investigators for research on assessing and cultivating emotional well-being
Role: Co-Investigator
Amount Awarded: $24,960

HONORS, AWARDS, & FELLOWSHIPS

- 2026 Institute for Social Research
Robert B. Zajonc Scholar Award
Awarded to support research on links between emotion and health across cultures
- 2024 University of Michigan
Philip Brickman Memorial Prize
Awarded annually for the best predoctoral research paper in social psychology at the University of Michigan

- 2023 Institute for Social Research
ISR Summer Training Award
For intensive summer statistical training in text analysis and natural language processing
- 2022 University of Michigan
Jay and Kay Peters Research Award
Awarded to support multi-method research on the role of religion in emotion regulation
- 2022 National Science Foundation
National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship
Honorable Mention
- 2016 – 2019 Brigham Young University
Full-Tuition Scholarship
- 2018 Brigham Young University
Honors Research Grant
- 2018 Brigham Young University
Psychology Experiential Learning Grant
To support summer research at Stanford University
- 2018 Brigham Young University
Office of Research and Creative Activities Research Grant
Competitive university-wide grants for undergraduate research

PUBLIC AND EDUCATIONAL PUBLICATIONS

Baldwin, C. R., Orvell, A., & Schertz, K. (2025). How can I deal with my emotions in the complexity of everyday life? Invited article for “Character and Context” blog for the Society for Personality and Social Psychology.

Baldwin, C.R. & Lira, B. (2023). R for Psychological Science: A Pragmatic Guide to Learning R for Psychological Research. Available publicly at r4psych.org.

An online R guidebook designed for undergraduate and graduate students to learn R for each part of the psychological research process. Portions of this guide were developed as workshops at Brigham Young University and University of Pennsylvania, which was expanded into a 10-week interactive workshop series for students.

Baldwin, C.R. (2022). clnR: A pragmatic R package for a systematic cleaning workflow for psychological data. Available publicly at <https://github.com/crbwin/clnR>.

- Multilevel Modeling Workshop, Stanford University, June 2018, Instructor: Amie Gordon

Statistical Methods

- Multilevel modeling
- Structural equation modeling
- Non-parametric regression methods such as logistic regression, multinomial regression,

- Advanced longitudinal methods (e.g., LGCM, LCM-SR/ALT-SR, LCS models, RICLPM)
- Polynomial regression with response surface analysis (RSA)
- Poisson regression, and negative binomial regression
- Generalized linear modeling
- Natural language processing
